LIST OF WORKS

GALLERY 1
1. Trophies Revised, 2021
   Mixed media installation
   Dimensions variable
   Trophies of Empire, 1992
   Video, 6 minutes
   Colour (looped)
   Rites of Passage, 1991
   Video, 7 minutes
   Colour (looped)
   Dutlh, 1999
   Video, 6 minutes
   Colour (looped)

GALLERY 2
1. Self-portrait in Garden, c.1994
   Oil on canvas with lace border
   81.3 × 96.4 cm
   Collection of Dr Janice Cheddie.
2. Homage to Frida Kahlo, 1987
   Oil on canvas
   71 × 71.6 cm
3. Ref Mi, 1986
   Oil on canvas
   72.5 × 64.7 cm
4. Self-portrait with Benin Queen Mother, 1985
   Oil on canvas
   66.7 × 56.3 cm
5. Father with Benin Backgrund, 1985
   Oil on canvas
   66.7 × 56.3 cm
6. Mother with Benin Brooch, 1985
   Oil on canvas
   66.7 × 56.3 cm
   30 photocollage monoprints on sugarpaper
   30.4 × 21.5 × 2 cm each

GALLERY 3
1. Keith Simon
   Untitled (figure with hand on hip), 1993
   Acrylic and chalk on brown paper
   65.5 × 56 cm
   Collection of Lorraine Brooks
2. Keith Simon
   Untitled (figure with hand on head), 1993
   Acrylic on white paper
   65.5 × 56 cm
   Collection of Lorraine Brooks
3. Keith Simon
   JCTE, 1993
   Acrylic on white paper
   65.5 × 56 cm
   Collection of Lorraine Brooks
   Digital print on transparency, lightbox
   61 × 43.5 cm
5. Lorraine Brooks
   The Art of Keith Simon, 2021
   Video, 8 minutes
   Colour (looped)
6. Family Unit, 1998
   Digital print on transparency, lightbox
   61 × 43.5 cm

Please scan this QR code to read the stories behind each patch.

SOCIAL FABRIC PARTICIPANTS

Ajemu
Rayvenne E. Ash
Charlie and Kate Boiser
Pat Brown
Siappe Curmi
Catherine Grant
Athra Greener
Joy Gregory
Hivos Hagipers
Anna Harding
Zih Holwell
Terry Humphrey
Bhajan Hunjan
Smytheth Kau Fatti
Amrose Kubat
Sarina Mbi
Ruth E Morgan
Vigora Monsan
Georgina Claye-Vurn
Elizabeth Orni
Ingrid P. Burd and Olive Pollock
Raju Sach Singh
Epi Mryan Sosovski
Michelle William Garnaker
Jacqueline Wright
Keegan Xavi
Rehana Zaman

Please scan this QR code to read the stories behind each patch.
RITA KEEGAN: SOMEWHERE BETWEEN THERE AND HERE

Rita Keegan (b. 1949, Bronx, New York) painting and copy art with experiential
Combining digital animation, textiles, and portraiture, Keegan’s creative kinship relations, in the tradition of the photocopier as an affordable and accessible medium, Keegan was drawn to its manipulative powers and ability to imbue images with new life.

Combining digital animation, textiles, and portraiture, Keegan’s creative kinship relations, in the tradition of the photocopier as an affordable and accessible medium, Keegan was drawn to its manipulative powers and ability to imbue images with new life.

In this series of copy art collages the people, sourced from her own collection, are transformed onto acetates which like ghosts flash in front of the viewer. The same haunting images also appear in Keegan’s Triptych of Empire, 1992, which is included here, together with the film Rites of Passage, 1991, and the new film, Somewhere Between There and Here, 2021.

Keegan created this last film using Avenue 1700-1997). The same haunting images also appear in Keegan’s Triptych of Empire, 1992, which is included here, together with the film Rites of Passage, 1991, and the new film, Somewhere Between There and Here, 2021.

Keegan created this last film using Avenue 1700-1997). The same haunting images also appear in Keegan’s Triptych of Empire, 1992, which is included here, together with the film Rites of Passage, 1991, and the new film, Somewhere Between There and Here, 2021.

In this series of copy art collages the people, sourced from her own collection, are transformed onto acetates which like ghosts flash in front of the viewer. The same haunting images also appear in Keegan’s Triptych of Empire, 1992, which is included here, together with the film Rites of Passage, 1991, and the new film, Somewhere Between There and Here, 2021.

Keegan created this last film using Avenue 1700-1997). The same haunting images also appear in Keegan’s Triptych of Empire, 1992, which is included here, together with the film Rites of Passage, 1991, and the new film, Somewhere Between There and Here, 2021.

In this series of copy art collages the people, sourced from her own collection, are transformed onto acetates which like ghosts flash in front of the viewer. The same haunting images also appear in Keegan’s Triptych of Empire, 1992, which is included here, together with the film Rites of Passage, 1991, and the new film, Somewhere Between There and Here, 2021.

Keegan created this last film using Avenue 1700-1997). The same haunting images also appear in Keegan’s Triptych of Empire, 1992, which is included here, together with the film Rites of Passage, 1991, and the new film, Somewhere Between There and Here, 2021.

In this series of copy art collages the people, sourced from her own collection, are transformed onto acetates which like ghosts flash in front of the viewer. The same haunting images also appear in Keegan’s Triptych of Empire, 1992, which is included here, together with the film Rites of Passage, 1991, and the new film, Somewhere Between There and Here, 2021.

Keegan created this last film using Avenue 1700-1997). The same haunting images also appear in Keegan’s Triptych of Empire, 1992, which is included here, together with the film Rites of Passage, 1991, and the new film, Somewhere Between There and Here, 2021.

In this series of copy art collages the people, sourced from her own collection, are transformed onto acetates which like ghosts flash in front of the viewer. The same haunting images also appear in Keegan’s Triptych of Empire, 1992, which is included here, together with the film Rites of Passage, 1991, and the new film, Somewhere Between There and Here, 2021.

Keegan created this last film using Avenue 1700-1997). The same haunting images also appear in Keegan’s Triptych of Empire, 1992, which is included here, together with the film Rites of Passage, 1991, and the new film, Somewhere Between There and Here, 2021.

In this series of copy art collages the people, sourced from her own collection, are transformed onto acetates which like ghosts flash in front of the viewer. The same haunting images also appear in Keegan’s Triptych of Empire, 1992, which is included here, together with the film Rites of Passage, 1991, and the new film, Somewhere Between There and Here, 2021.

Keegan created this last film using Avenue 1700-1997). The same haunting images also appear in Keegan’s Triptych of Empire, 1992, which is included here, together with the film Rites of Passage, 1991, and the new film, Somewhere Between There and Here, 2021.

In this series of copy art collages the people, sourced from her own collection, are transformed onto acetates which like ghosts flash in front of the viewer. The same haunting images also appear in Keegan’s Triptych of Empire, 1992, which is included here, together with the film Rites of Passage, 1991, and the new film, Somewhere Between There and Here, 2021.

Keegan created this last film using Avenue 1700-1997). The same haunting images also appear in Keegan’s Triptych of Empire, 1992, which is included here, together with the film Rites of Passage, 1991, and the new film, Somewhere Between There and Here, 2021.

In this series of copy art collages the people, sourced from her own collection, are transformed onto acetates which like ghosts flash in front of the viewer. The same haunting images also appear in Keegan’s Triptych of Empire, 1992, which is included here, together with the film Rites of Passage, 1991, and the new film, Somewhere Between There and Here, 2021.

Keegan created this last film using Avenue 1700-1997). The same haunting images also appear in Keegan’s Triptych of Empire, 1992, which is included here, together with the film Rites of Passage, 1991, and the new film, Somewhere Between There and Here, 2021.

In this series of copy art collages the people, sourced from her own collection, are transformed onto acetates which like ghosts flash in front of the viewer. The same haunting images also appear in Keegan’s Triptych of Empire, 1992, which is included here, together with the film Rites of Passage, 1991, and the new film, Somewhere Between There and Here, 2021.

Keegan created this last film using Avenue 1700-1997). The same haunting images also appear in Keegan’s Triptych of Empire, 1992, which is included here, together with the film Rites of Passage, 1991, and the new film, Somewhere Between There and Here, 2021.

In this series of copy art collages the people, sourced from her own collection, are transformed onto acetates which like ghosts flash in front of the viewer. The same haunting images also appear in Keegan’s Triptych of Empire, 1992, which is included here, together with the film Rites of Passage, 1991, and the new film, Somewhere Between There and Here, 2021.

Keegan created this last film using Avenue 1700-1997). The same haunting images also appear in Keegan’s Triptych of Empire, 1992, which is included here, together with the film Rites of Passage, 1991, and the new film, Somewhere Between There and Here, 2021.

In this series of copy art collages the people, sourced from her own collection, are transformed onto acetates which like ghosts flash in front of the viewer. The same haunting images also appear in Keegan’s Triptych of Empire, 1992, which is included here, together with the film Rites of Passage, 1991, and the new film, Somewhere Between There and Here, 2021.

Keegan created this last film using Avenue 1700-1997). The same haunting images also appear in Keegan’s Triptych of Empire, 1992, which is included here, together with the film Rites of Passage, 1991, and the new film, Somewhere Between There and Here, 2021.

In this series of copy art collages the people, sourced from her own collection, are transformed onto acetates which like ghosts flash in front of the viewer. The same haunting images also appear in Keegan’s Triptych of Empire, 1992, which is included here, together with the film Rites of Passage, 1991, and the new film, Somewhere Between There and Here, 2021.

Keegan created this last film using Avenue 1700-1997). The same haunting images also appear in Keegan’s Triptych of Empire, 1992, which is included here, together with the film Rites of Passage, 1991, and the new film, Somewhere Between There and Here, 2021.

In this series of copy art collages the people, sourced from her own collection, are transformed onto acetates which like ghosts flash in front of the viewer. The same haunting images also appear in Keegan’s Triptych of Empire, 1992, which is included here, together with the film Rites of Passage, 1991, and the new film, Somewhere Between There and Here, 2021.

Keegan created this last film using Avenue 1700-1997). The same haunting images also appear in Keegan’s Triptych of Empire, 1992, which is included here, together with the film Rites of Passage, 1991, and the new film, Somewhere Between There and Here, 2021.

In this series of copy art collages the people, sourced from her own collection, are transformed onto acetates which like ghosts flash in front of the viewer. The same haunting images also appear in Keegan’s Triptych of Empire, 1992, which is included here, together with the film Rites of Passage, 1991, and the new film, Somewhere Between There and Here, 2021.

Keegan created this last film using Avenue 1700-1997). The same haunting images also appear in Keegan’s Triptych of Empire, 1992, which is included here, together with the film Rites of Passage, 1991, and the new film, Somewhere Between There and Here, 2021.

In this series of copy art collages the people, sourced from her own collection, are transformed onto acetates which like ghosts flash in front of the viewer. The same haunting images also appear in Keegan’s Triptych of Empire, 1992, which is included here, together with the film Rites of Passage, 1991, and the new film, Somewhere Between There and Here, 2021.

Keegan created this last film using Avenue 1700-1997). The same haunting images also appear in Keegan’s Triptych of Empire, 1992, which is included here, together with the film Rites of Passage, 1991, and the new film, Somewhere Between There and Here, 2021.

In this series of copy art collages the people, sourced from her own collection, are transformed onto acetates which like ghosts flash in front of the viewer. The same haunting images also appear in Keegan’s Triptych of Empire, 1992, which is included here, together with the film Rites of Passage, 1991, and the new film, Somewhere Between There and Here, 2021.